

ABSTRACT

An optical element module is equipped with a casing, an optical element provided inside the casing, a pipe which communicates the inside of 5 the casing to the outside, and a primary coated optical fiber which is inserted through the pipe and connected to the optical element.